Finnish DC3 Disaster Is Unexplained

Plane Burns After Fall Into Swamp; Three Survive

By A. E. PEDERSEN

MARIEHAMN, Finland (UPI) — A Finnair DC3 airliner with 24 Finns aboard crashed into a swamp forest area near here Friday night, flipped over on its back and caught fire. Twenty-one persons were killed and three survived.

Authorities said the dead included two children and the pilot and co-pilot. Two male passengers and stewardess Marianne Kullberg survived with injuries and burns. They were reported doing well in a hospital.

The plane, on an internal flight in Finland, was approaching Maarianhamina Airport on the Island of Ahvenanmaa which lies between Stockholm, Sweden and Finland at the junction of the Baltic Sea and the Gulf of Bothnia. It fell less than a mile from the airport.

Officials said the pilot took off from Turku on the last 30-minute leg of a flight from Helsinki to Maarianhamina and had carried on a normal radio conversation with the island airport control tower almost until the last moment.

Weathermen said visibility conditions were changing rapidly as the DC3 made its approach. They had no immediate explanation for the crash, the second peacetime fatal accident in Finnair's 40-year history. On Jan. 3, 1961, another DC3 crashed in western Finland, killing 25 persons.

Radio crewmen at the Mariehamn tower said the tower lost contact with the plane shortly before 7 p.m. when an unidentified jet flew over the area. After the jet passed, the tower tried in vain to contact the DC3 but it apparently had crashed.

Finnair ordered an investigating team to start work Saturday. The plane was due for a periodic engine overhaul after Friday night's flight. The flight started from Helsinki where half the passengers boarded and landed at Turku on the Finnish mainland, about 45 minutes flying time from Mariehamn.

The two surviving passengers, August Andersson and Linkio Pekkas, said they noticed nothing out of the ordinary just before the crash. The stewardess had gone down the aisle earlier telling passengers to fasten their seat belts. Andersson said the plane did not appear to have gone into its landing pattern — "It flew along steadily, until suddenly it was whipping through the trees."

Sloppy Dress Blamed On TV

LONDON (AP) — American tailors and designers were advised Friday how to capture clothes markets and create a more elegant world: get U.S. television to produce fewer horse operas and popularize smart dress instead of blue jeans.

The advice came from the British magazine Tailor and Cutter, which bills itself as "the authority on style and clothes." The magazine's comments were in a front-page article which also paid tribute to Adolphe Menjou, the elegant Hollywood actor who died last week. It lamented the decline of Hollywood as a stylesetter and the takeover of rumpled television beat singers and private eyes, where now only Cary Grant still carries the torch for Hollywood.

Lowell Thomas Has Heart Attack

DETROIT (UPI) — Famed news commentator Lowell Thomas suffered a mild heart attack and will be hospitalized for an indefinite period, his doctors said Friday.

Thomas, 71, complained of feeling ill and was admitted to Henry Ford Hospital early Thursday. Tests disclosed the heart attack.

Thomas has been a radio in the capital since Diem's death Saturday. He has also written extensively of his many world travels.

Mrs. Nhu Says She Is Without Wealth

By DORIS KLEIN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu spoke out Friday for the first time on the subject of her personal finances, and denied she has funds abroad.

"They are all mistaken," she told The Associated Press, "those people who say I have a villa and money outside Viet Nam."

The former first lady of South Viet Nam, in seclusion at a private home here since the coup that overthrew the regime headed by her brother-in-law and husband and cost their lives as well, spoke to a reporter by telephone.

"All that I have is in Viet Nam—my home at Dalat that I was preparing as a nice place to retire to."

A report from Washington on Thursday quoted a "qualified source close to" the Nhu family as saying she is a clever businesswoman with ample resources in other countries, including a villa on the French Riviera.

"The story that I have property abroad is an invention of that former member of Viet Nam's Embassy in Washington," she said she was referring to Ngo To Dat, former first secretary of the embassy who resigned along with her ambassador father, Tran Van CNG, last August in protest over treatment of Buddhists by the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

As to where she will get money to support herself and her four children, Mrs. Nhu replied: "I do not know. I shall see when I talk to my brothers-in-law Ngo Dinh Luyen, former Vietnamese ambassador to Great Britain, and Thuc." The latter is Archbishop Pierre Martin Ngo Dinh Thuc, now caring for her three younger children in Rome. They were flown there Wednesday from Viet Nam where they had been during the coup.

Mrs. Nhu moved out of her hotel suite Wednesday to become a house guest of wealthy businessman Allen Chase and his wife.

The younger children, ages 15, 11 and 4 are expected to join her here early next week.

Russians Clear Troops Without Unusual Delay

BERLIN (AP) — The three Western powers sent convoys along the disputed highway to Berlin on Friday to test Soviet intentions and all got through without trouble.

Lt. Ivan Scott Lewis, 24, officer commanding a British convoy from the Prince of Wales' own regiment, said on arrival in West Berlin: "It was noticeable that the Russian attitude was much easier."

Soviet Premier Khrushchev warned this week that the three Western powers must respect what he called Soviet control procedures on the autobahn from West Germany to Berlin. He predicted there would be more holdups along the 110-mile highway unless these Soviet rules of the road are respected.

The British convoy of eight vehicles and 43 men was the last to reach Berlin. First to cross from West Germany was a U.S. convoy of six vehicles and eight men. It was followed by a French convoy of 10 vehicles and 47 men.

Lewis said his convoy was cleared through the Soviet checkpoint outside Berlin in 31 minutes, par for the course. Neither outside Berlin nor at Marienborn, at the western end of the autobahn, were his men asked to dismount to be counted, he reported.

Soviet insistence on dismounting was the cause of this week's autobahn crisis. Soviet armor held an American convoy of 44 men at Marienborn for 41 hours. The Russians finally let the Americans through Wednesday, saying the U.S. convoy complied with Soviet demands. This was denied by the United States.

The Western powers insist that they have the right to unrestricted access to Berlin.

Rusk Details Problem Of Free Access

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk let the Soviet Union know Friday that the United States will continue to insist upon free access to West Berlin.

Describing as serious the recent incidents on the autobahn highway connecting Berlin with West Germany, Rusk expressed belief that Soviet Premier Khrushchev shares this view.

In his first news conference since Aug. 16, Rusk criticized Congress for its deep cuts in foreign aid and suggested that the tendency "to legislate foreign policy" denies the President the flexibility he needs to protect U.S. interests.

The news conference was the first one by a secretary of state to be carried live by several radio networks.

On the recent coup d'etat in South Viet Nam, Rusk said that during the last period of the regime of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem there was a "growing gap between the government and the people." The United States hopes, he said, that the country's new leaders will consolidate their efforts and "get on with the job" of fighting communism.

Discussing the recent Berlin crisis, Rusk conceded that the incidents, in which American army convoys were held up on the autobahn, sometimes look

2 SAC Bases Will Return To British

Other Cutbacks Possible In Air Fighter Squadrons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States announced Friday a cutback of nearly 20 per cent in its B47 nuclear bomber force stationed in Europe.

The action may be followed by some reductions in fighter squadrons in other U.S. air units in that area.

The Defense Department said 19 of the aging six-jet B47s will be brought back from Britain by July 1, leaving 80 of the planes in Britain and Spain at least for the time being.

At the same time, 22 propeller-driven KB50 tanker refueling planes will be retired from service in England.

Two of four bases used by the Strategic Air Command in Britain will be returned to the Royal Air Force. They are Fairford in Gloucestershire, and Greenham Common in Berkshire.

About 2,650 American Air Force men are affected, the Pentagon said. There are about 25,000 U.S. military men in Britain along with about 35,000 of their dependents.

The action will not mean any reduction in U.S. nuclear striking power covering Europe, the Defense Department said.

The B47 reduction, the Pentagon said, was made possible by a rapid increase in the number of U.S. Polaris missile-firing submarines and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The Polaris can be fired from the safety of the ocean depths and ICBMs, with a range of more than 6,000 miles can strike targets from the United States. Neither is dependent on advance bases vulnerable to Communist attack.

Sir Alec Says Victory Turns Tide For Party

PERTH, Scotland (AP) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home asserted Friday his election to the House of Commons showed the tide is turning for his hard-pressed Conservative party. His view was challenged by Laborites who claim they are going to return to power in elections next year.

Laborites pointed to their victory in the industrial district of Luton, the other seat in the House of Commons contested in the two special elections Thursday. A Conservative had held that seat.

There were boos and jeers for his defeated Laborite opponent and some heckling for himself when the 60-year-old prime minister made a victory speech on the steps of the courthouse in this city in central Scotland.

Kinross and West Perthshire gave him a parliamentary seat by a 9,328-vote margin over his nearest opponent, a Liberal. He resigned the peerage and quit the House of Lords two weeks ago to make the race so that he could lead his new government personally from the House of Commons.

In the 1959 general election the Conservatives took this rural Scottish district by a 12,000-vote margin in a three-sided race.

Million Dollar Gem Robbery Staged On New York Street

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP) — A diamond district pickup truck was hijacked on a midtown Manhattan avenue Friday, and four armed bandits looted it of an estimated $1 million in gems.

Two of the robbers were disguised in policemen's uniforms, and wore Halloween masks.

The FBI quickly joined the investigation. The holdup occurred shortly before 1 p.m. It went off with a minimum of confusion and was heralded when one of the bandits stepped up to the halted diamond truck with a gun in his hand and announced tritely but forcefully: "This is a stickup." Six men inside the diamond truck were unarmed—a com-ny policy. They were handcuffed and forced into the bandits' panel truck. The robbers then drove the diamond truck three blocks south, looting and abandoning it.

The diamond truck was owned by the AAA Jewelers Service. Its driver, Louis Moots of Ridgefield, N.J., had picked up 2,000 envelopes from the firm's office on West 47th Street, center of the nation's diamond trading. Each envelope contained one or more gems deposited with the firm by dealers in the area.

The glittering fortune was being taken downtown to the AAA Nassau Street offices, for subsequent distribution to purchasers.

The employees in the diamond truck told detectives the disguise of two of the bandits completely disarmed them — they thought they were being halted by real policemen for a traffic violation.

After the bandits drove off with the diamond truck, the employees scrambled out through the front of the panel truck and summoned police.

Protestants Give Kennedy Singular Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, received an award from New York's Protestant leaders Friday night and used it as a springboard for an appeal against scuttling his foreign aid program "in an outburst of petty irritation and frustration."

The program has been getting a kicking around in Congress. Kennedy's forum for another bid for support of the vast undertaking to help friendly nations was a banquet sponsored by the New York City Protestant Council, bringing together about 3,500 representatives of all faiths.

Kennedy was selected for the council's first Family of Man Award for his "outstanding contributions and distinguished services to the cause of human rights and democratic freedoms."

The council called this a historic breakthrough in U.S. Protestant-Catholic relations. It has awarded citations to other distinguished Americans. But the Family of Man Award, symbolizing that all people are

Vietnamese Describe Torture In Concentration Camps

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese freed from concentration camps set up by Ngo Dinh Diem's regime told Friday of torture on naked bodies, of blinding, and of mutilation.

Scores of students of both sexes declared that inquisitors forced them to drink soapy water until their intestines had poured blood.

A high school youth, Nguyen

Van, was reported beaten to death.

Some prisoners were blinded by torture seeking to force information about Buddhist and student movement against Diem and his adviser-brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu who headed the secret police.

Fingers were chopped off others, the Vietnamese said. Miss Hoang Thi Dong, 29, a pretty typist, told with an embarrassed smile of her ordeal in the custody of the secret police

last Friday, only a few hours before the outbreak of the coup that destroyed Diem.

She said she was taken from a cell-like room where she was confined with six other girls and six men.

"They stripped me, tied me over a bench, choked me with water and a towel and beat me until I was unconscious," she said.

A Buddhist employed at the British Embassy, Miss Dong

said that was her treatment when she denied charges that she was a Communist and that she had served as a courier for Buddhist documents smuggled to foreign correspondents, the United Nations fact-finding mission and the U.S. Information Agency.

She said the guards let her dress and rejoin other prisoners at the camp, in a wood about 12 miles outside Saigon, only after warning her she would be tortured again in the afternoon. But the sound of guns and warplanes intervened.

The government announced the state of martial law imposed with the coup has ended throughout South Viet Nam. A curfew order and censorship of news dispatches were lifted on Thursday.

Reliable sources said Tran Van Kiem, a younger brother of the widowed former first lady

Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, is under arrest in Saigon. He had only recently accepted a high political security post in Diem's administration.

A grenade exploded at the foot of a Saigon bridge near an army checkpoint Thursday night and slightly injured two soldiers. It was the fourth grenade incident in the capital since Diem's death Saturday. All are believed to have been thrown by Communist agents.

U.S. Takes Action In Krebiozen Case

Doctors Who Sponsored Cancer Cure Drug Ordered To Informal Hearing

CHICAGO (AP) — The federal government took action Friday that could lead to prosecution of Drs. Andrew C. Ivy and Stevan Durovic for claiming the drug Krebiozen is effective in the treatment of cancer.

The Food and Drug Administration directed them to appear at an informal closed hearing Nov. 18 in Chicago to show cause why they should not be prosecuted.

Oldest Soldier On Active Duty Is Re-Enlisted

ATLANTA (AP) — A stocky, ruddy-faced and heavily decorated 66-year-old Army sergeant could be the answer to a recruiting officer's prayer.

Sgt. Howard R. Davis, already the oldest soldier on active duty at Ft. McPherson, was granted re-enlistment Friday. He'll be 72 when he retires.

"I've been sweating out my acceptance for two weeks," he said — this in a day when most fellows are delighted to be bypassed by the Army.

Davis, who was cited for bravery in the trenches of France, found his World War I decorations had a part in his re-enlistment. Officers said they had a direct bearing on his acceptance.

His medals include the silver star with oak leaf cluster, the purple heart, the World War victory medal with three battle stars, the Army commendation medal and World War II victory medal.

Why did Davis re-enlist at his age? "Every time the troops go by, I get goose pimples," he laughed.

After World War I, Davis went to college, studied law and qualified for the bar, but did not pursue it.

"I'd married by then and a family was coming along," he said. He wound up as chief examiner in the state auditor's office at Columbus, Ohio.

Davis, a native of Martins Ferry, Ohio, was in the Ohio National Guard during World War I.

In 1950, his Guard unit was called to duty and he served in France and Germany. His most recent post was in Korea.

Davis came to Atlanta in August where he and his wife now live. Their three children are married — and there are seven grandchildren.

Officials Say Hospitals Can Scare Children

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Johns Hopkins physician says a child may become fearful if he knows too far in advance that he will be admitted to a hospital.

"To talk about the hospital two to three months in advance is an error," said Dr. Matthew Debuskey, assistant professor of pediatrics at Johns Hopkins.

"Nightmares are apt to occur before the admission time. Two or three days in advance is much better."

Dr. Debuskey was one of three members of the Johns Hopkins staff who participated Thursday night in a symposium entitled, "A Child in the Hospital: His Family's Role."

He urged parents to accompany the child to the hospital and stay with him during the critical period, attempt to exhibit confidence, and contact the patient daily, in person, by telephone or by mail.

Johns Hopkins will open early next year a new 270-bed Children's Medical and Surgical Center. Space will be provided to accommodate up to 100 parents at a time.

"one family under God," is a new honor which will be bestowed annually.

Taking the name of the award as a starting point, Kennedy said in a speech prepared for the gathering that the family of man is not limited to one race, religion, city or country but lives more than three billion strong in more than 100 nations.

In the world today, he said, the family of man is not faring well — its members should be at peace with one another but they are not.

From there, Kennedy went on to say that this family can survive differences of race and religion and can accept differences of ideology, politics, and economics.

"But," the President said, "it cannot survive, in the form in which we know it, a nuclear war — and neither can it long endure this growing gulf between the rich and the poor."

"The rich must help the poor. The industrialized nations must help the developing nations. And the United States, along with its major allies, must better — not worse — by its foreign aid program."

Kennedy said he thinks the American people are willing to shoulder the burden of foreign aid.

"Is this nation stating," the President asked, "that it cannot afford an additional $600 million to help the developing nations of the world become strong and free—an amount less than this country's annual outlay for lipstick, face cream and chewing gum?"

"Are we saying that we cannot help our 19 needy neighbors in Latin America with a greater effort than the Communist bloc is making in the single island of Cuba?"

Wisconsin Attorneys Oppose Appointment Of Federal Judge

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A majority of Wisconsin attorneys, responding to an unprecedented poll conducted by the state bar association, has registered the opinion that Wisconsin's Democratic national committeeman is unqualified to be a federal judge.

President Kennedy named David Rabinovitz, a labor attorney from Sheboygan, in eastern Wisconsin, to be U. S. district judge for the western district, to succeed the late Patrick T. Stone. The Senate Judiciary Committee hearing on confirmation was continued after a spokesman for the American Bar Association registered opposition.

The state bar, which undertook to poll Wisconsin's 5,055 attorney members, announced Friday that 3,530 responded, and that of these 2,040 said they did not consider Rabinovitz qualified, 793 gave the opinion that he was qualified and 697 expressed no opinion.

Some Democratic leaders, bitterly contested the poll, forced a special meeting of the integrated group's board of governors to reconsider it, and when the action was affirmed, obtained a State Supreme Court order temporarily restraining tabulation. However, the high court vacated the injunction Thursday on the bar's plea that the poll was in the public interest.

The results are being forwarded to Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Rabinovitz rose to prominence as counsel for the United Auto Workers in the union's bitter, prolonged strike against the Kohler Co. in the 1950s. He was an early Kennedy supporter in Wisconsin.

Kennedy Signs Bill For Md. Nuclear Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy signed Friday a bill authorizing the Army to build a $2,174,000 test nuclear reactor at its Aberdeen (Md.) Proving Ground.

New York, which wants to build a similar reactor of its own for lease to the federal government, had opposed the project.

The Aberdeen reactor would create the environment following a nuclear explosion for testing weapons and electronic equipment.

It was included in a bill authorizing $1.64 billion worth of construction at military bases in the United States and overseas.

artificial because they involve only questions of procedure. But that's not the real issue, he added.

"The point is not whether a particular tailgate is lowered," he explained, referring to a Soviet request that the Americans lower the tailgates of the vehicles to allow a head count of troops.

"The point is freedom of access to West Berlin," he said. "That access, he said, is 'utterly fundamental,' and warned that Soviet insistence upon changing control procedures on the highway 'could be converted into a power to interrupt access to Berlin.'"

Rusk invited the Russians to "work out better arrangements" on Germany and Berlin based on Western proposals.

Rusk conceded he has no ready explanation for the incidents.

Mrs. Roeder Asks Restudy Of Mission

A study which might lead to reconsideration of the Mayor and Council's denial of an occupancy permit to the Union Rescue Mission has been asked by Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder.

Mrs. Roeder, who said she has come to believe that her action and that of council last Monday "may have been hasty," added that she was asking the study in good conscience and before any "pressure" was brought to bear on council for a reversal of its action.

City Hall sources said yesterday they were informed that a delegation will attend Tuesday's council session to urge action on the mission proposal.

The major point of dispute in Mrs. Roeder's opinion is the location of the Rescue Mission. It had been proposed to locate in the New Theatre building on Virginia Avenue but residents of the area protested that location at last Monday's meeting.

Council's motion to reject also contained a provision that City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen draw up an ordinance banning such places within the City of Cumberland.

Mrs. Roeder said she felt some study should be given to this before such action is taken.

"It may be," she said, "that if the Rescue Mission, for example, were located some place else, it may do good work."

"I do not feel we were sufficiently informed on the operations of the Rescue Mission or its intent and since there are so many facets to this question — including the banning of similar operations — we should know all the facts before writing it off."

Mrs. Roeder said, however, she felt the action denying the occupancy permit should stand until such time as a complete study is made, including a meeting with sponsors of the Mission plan.

"Upon study it may be determined that the mission will serve a very useful purpose in our city and I think it might only be a problem of location."

Sylvan Retreat Work Planned

The John I. Vandegriff Company will install a new doorway facility at Sylvan Retreat for $1,150.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners accepted the firm's offer to install the aluminum and glass main entrance at the mental institution. It will replace an outmoded wooden doorway.

Council approved the motion to deny the permit and ban any similar places in the city by a 5-0 vote. Earlier, it had been reported that the vote was 4-1 but Mayor Earl D. Chaney, while opposing the action, voted with the others. He said he did not think the city could bar such places all over the city because "it takes in too much territory. I feel if it is done, and they take it to court, they will win the thing and we will lose. I will vote for it but I am not in favor of this."

Harvest Home Festival Sunday At St. Paul's

Rev. Dr. Carl R. Simon will preach at the Harvest Home Festival of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Washington and Smallwood streets, Sunday.

Rev. Dr. Simon who is pastor-superintendent of the National Lutheran Home, Washington, D. C., will speak at both the 8:30 and 11 a. m. services.

Members of the congregation are requested to bring their gifts to the church Saturday morning so that they can be arranged for display. These gifts of food stuffs are used in the support of the National Lutheran Home which cares for 260 guests of whom four are members of St. Paul's: namely, Miss Vera Gurley, Miss Helene McKee, Miss Mable Miley and Miss Louisa Reynolds.

Hospital Bond Issue Sale Is Discussed

Plans for the sale of a $500,000 bond issue for the expansion of Memorial Hospital were discussed at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, said that Alexander Brown and Sons, Baltimore, would be contacted to arrange for their retention as financial advisers on issuance of the bonds.

In connection with bond issues and financing of the school expansion program, Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, appeared before the board to have a resolution adopted for the borrowing of $1,075,000 from the state school construction loan fund.

These funds will be obtained shortly after the first of the year. The interest on the loan will be approximately three per cent, Webster said. During the first two years the county pays only the interest and the principal is paid off in the final 13 years of the 15-year period the loan is in force.

Getty informed the board that the LaVale Sanitary Commission will be acting on the sale of a bond issue to match a federal grant for extension of the community water lines. This will probably be in the neighborhood of $118,500, the amount of the federal grant.

Webster also submitted a report on the money needs of the Board of Education for the next few years in the school construction program. This data is needed so that the financial adviser in county will have the information the issuance of bonds by the readily accessible.

Iota Epsilon Discusses Project

Plans for a Thanksgiving basket and Christmas dinner were discussed at the meeting of Iota Epsilon Chapter, Tau Phi Lambda of the Supreme Forest Woodman Circle, following the initiation of three members. It was voted to bring food items for a basket to the meeting November 21, which will be held in the fellowship hall of First Christian Church. December 5 was set as the tentative date for the dinner in Grace Methodist Church hall.

Miss Jacqua Day conducted the meeting and welcomed the new members. She read a letter from Mrs. Doris Pearson, national secretary-treasurer, thanking the chapter for its part in the national convention. ## Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several of us young married women were discussing a variety of subjects at sewing circle last Wednesday and we wound up in a terrible argument. Can you give us your ideas on this subject?

Is it proper for a mother to nurse her baby in public—say on a bus, a park bench, in a theater or in a restaurant? Two of the girls were vehement in their opinion that only an evil-minded person would think this was wrong. They claim there is no sight more beautiful in all the world than a mother nursing her baby.

Others of us believe that nursing a baby in public is vulgar and only a very ignorant person would do it. How do you feel about this?—HEAVY DEBATE

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is not a matter of right or wrong, ignorance or vulgarity—it's a matter of custom.

In our society it is not considered good taste to nurse a baby in a public place.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been offered a promotion but my wife doesn't want me to accept it because it means moving to a city where my ex-wife and daughter live.

Although our divorce was a bitter one my ex-wife and I are now on friendly terms. We speak on the long distance telephone often about matters of mutual concern. I've been paying stiff alimony and support for eight years but I feel it is my moral obligation and I'm not complaining.

Every year since the divorce I have gone to celebrate my daughter's birthday with her. This provokes annual fireworks from my wife. When I attended my ex-father-in-law's funeral last year my wife was enraged. You have frequently said in your column that a good wife should do whatever she can to help her husband get ahead. I like your expression "She should go where the grapes grow."

Will you repeat it please?

—ARNOLD

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If the grapes are growing in a patch

Judy Castle and Miss Ann Marie Paoletti. The Order of the Rose, for membership in the Sorority 15 years, was conferred on second row, Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis, Mrs. Lois Nickel, Mrs. Florence Snelson and Mrs. Betty Reed. Entertainment featured a musical program.

Allegheny County approximately 10 years.

Mrs. Ralph Isiminger will conduct the business session, at which time plans for the Christmas greens show December 9-10 will be discussed.

Assistants Hear About Medicine

Dr. Martin Rothstein, Frostburg, was guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Allegheny-Garrett County Medical Assistants, held at Clary Club. He spoke on "The Art of Medicine."

Plans were discussed for the annual Christmas party at Au Petit Paris.

Attending were Mrs. Sandra Anthony, Miss Carolyn Yutzy, Mrs. Rosemary Moore, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Davis, Miss Gertrude Barry, Miss Patricia Taylor, Mrs. Joretta Butcher, Mrs. Evelyn Campbell, Mrs. Virginia Connor, Mrs. Virginia Keller, Mrs. Patricia Twigg, Mrs. Becki Twigg, Mrs. Phyllis Reed, Mrs. Jodi Gordon, Mrs. Harlene Hasenbuhler, Mrs. Mabel Young and Mrs. Mary Crock.

of poison ivy I don't believe it's worth it.

Multiply by 1,000 the trouble you are now having because of your wife's resentment to your first family. You'll then have a vague notion of what life will be like if you all live in the same city. In my opinion, Bub, no grapes are worth it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My cousin is 40 years of age. She is attractive, well-educated and has a charming personality. Her husband passed away five months ago and she is just beginning to come out of her grief and enjoy living again.

I have three friends (two widowers and a bachelor) who would be just right for her, but I don't know how to go about fixing her up. The problem is that because they all know each other so well these men just can't see the forest for the trees. How can I get them to take her out without being too obvious? Please give me a hand with this project. —S.A.Q.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you want to ruin the woman's chances for all time, just make her a "project." That will finish her permanently.

It is always a bum idea to try to fix up a widow with men who have known her for years. They are aware that she is alone, and if they're interested, they'll call her with no cues from the peanut gallery.

The best thing you can do for your cousin is to include her in parties as you did when her husband was living.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"The Bride's Guide," ANN LANDERS' newest booklet, gives authoritative and complete information on how to plan a wedding. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35c in coin.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your Mirrored Self

thought and emotion without destroying their own beauty.

If you've never caught yourself talking to yourself, try it now—out loud and in front of your mirror. Try it for ten minutes.

Well, what did you find? See any mannerisms or unconscious facial expressions that might detract from your good looks . . . or subtract from the meaning of your conversation?

You are lucky if you didn't. Most people have some and you can bet your best hat that when you see a girl with a wrinkled-up forehead or a frowning brow, she isn't nearly as cross as she looks. She's probably completely unaware that she looks that way. She'd be shocked if she realized how false an impression of herself she creates.

If you want to be fair to yourself, now's the time to eliminate any defacing grimace. You can do that the second after you discover it! The whole trick is in learning what it is.

So talk to your mirror, and keep on talking, ten minutes at a time. Let your mirror be your severest critic and talk right back. At the beginning of this one-woman conversation, you may find you're so self-conscious that your face goes completely dead-pan. But that's not what you're after! A blank face has even less charm and interest than one that "emotes" with every feature.

All you want to do is to remove the habitual frown, wrinkle, pout and scowl from your expression. And you can do this by talking to your mirror for a few minutes every day until you learn to use only your eyes, voice and smile to express what's in your mind.

It's the same kind of self-training that all actresses and models must and do give themselves when they want to star in the art of clearly expressing

Rev. Mr. Farris resigned his charge at Riderwood to enter the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church. He did one year of graduate study at Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria in 1961-62. He served as lay reader-in-charge of St. John's Chapel at Relay during this same period.

Luke Mill First In Safety Event

LUKE — Pleased officials of West Virginia Pulp and Paper's Luke Mill announced yesterday that the mill had placed first in the annual corporate safety competition throughout the company's widespread operations.

David L. Luke III, president of the company, informed mill officials yesterday that Luke was the 1963 winner of both the President's Trophy for the most improvement in safety performance and the Cash Award Contest for the lowest frequency of disabling injuries.

West Virginia Pulp and Paper has some 30 separate manufacturing, converting and timberlands operations scattered over the United States. These are divided into 14 areas for the purposes of safety competition. Luke placed first with a 70 per cent improvement in its safety performance and ended the year with a disabling injury frequency of only 2.32 for every 1,000,000 man hours worked.

On the way to winning the coveted safety awards, the Luke mill set several all-time safety records during the past year. Three times, employees reached a total of 1,000,000 man hours worked without a lost time accident or disabling injury.

Luke mill employees have now reached a total of 1,400,000 man hours worked without a lost time accident or disabling injury and are still going. William M. Thompson, production manager, pointed out that: "This is a particularly significant achievement in the paper industry with its massive equipment and more than routine exposure to possible hazards." He congratulated the employees for winning the company's annual safety competition.

The Luke mill set its one million safe man hour records between March and May, 1962; July and October, 1962 and July and October, 1963.

RETIREES — Robert Stultz, Keyser, retired November 1 from the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company after 39 years of service with the firm. A native of the McCool area, Mr. Stultz joined the pulp mill department in 1924 and was serving as supervisor of the millwrights department upon retirement.

Flying Club Formed At Frostburg

Runway Area Is Leased

FROSTBURG — The recently organized Frostburg Flying Club Inc. has leased seven acres of land of the James Morgan farm near Carlos for a landing strip.

William Hughes, president of the club, said the runway will be 2,000 feet long and 200 feet wide. Three acres of woodland adjoining the runway will be used for hangar space.

Advantages of the landing strip, according to Hughes, include emergency landing facilities in the event the Cumberland Municipal Airport is fogged in; its being close to the Frostburg State College; access to the golf course; and being only three miles on access hard surface improved roads from the city limits.

Mr. Hughes said the group, which now has 10 members, plans to improve the port and if possible to receive federal aid in blacktopping runways after the club becomes established.

Other officers include Franklin Young, vice president, and Alva C. Lewis, secretary-treasurer, who said any person interested in becoming a member is to contact any of the officers.

There's No Better Propaganda

One way to fight Communism is to send Communists on an expense-paid junket to the Soviet Union, according to an Italian industrialist. Renato Crotte, a textile manufacturer who lives in the little town of Carpi near Bologna, became concerned about the leftward swing of his village.

Located in the heart of the Italian Red belt, Carpi voted 56 per cent Communist in the last election. Having seen the deplorable living conditions of Soviet citizens on two business trips to Russia in 1959 and 1961, Crotte initiated his own reform movement.

To date, he has sent 39 Italians through Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and East Germany. Next summer, he plans to send more than 100 of his fellow townspeople. The only stipulation the Italian manufacturer attaches to the tours is that those who accept his generosity make a brief statement of their observations upon their return.

Two monthly magazines published by Crotte insure a wide distribution of the returnees' statements. Both the city administration and the local paper are Communist.

With only one or two exceptions, the people were shocked by what they saw behind the Iron Curtain. Detailed accounts of shoddy goods and poorer services, rudimentary sanitation conditions and low wages, crowded and substandard housing all are included in the observations of Italians who saw for themselves.

Imaginative and direct, Renato Crotte's idea is a prove-it-or-shut-up challenge which cannot be ignored. His contribution to the fight against ignorance and propaganda is small by any standard, but one cannot help getting the impression the industrialist gets a far better return on his investment than governments do from many of their grandiose schemes.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Black Sheep And The Grey

I know that I should be valiantly exercised about the current scandals and rumors of scandals in Washington. But, to be perfectly honest about it, the stories about Bobby Baker, Navy Secretary Fred Korth and others leave me with very mixed feelings.

What seems so ho-hum about it all is that minor scandals are quite unremarkable when they are projected against a background of what might be termed total scandal. Here we have Bobby Baker being accused of the crime, if it is a crime, of using his reputation as an influential Secretary to the Senate Majority in ways that have enabled him to make a lot of extra-curricular money. But whatever power Bobby had was merely a reflected power—if he could trade on "influence," it was only because certain of his employers in the U.S. Senate really do have influence. Nobody would have given Bobby a nickel he shouldn't have had if there hadn't been a fear that retribution might be lurking at the hands of somebody who could really affect the distribution of governmental resources.

This matter of "influence" is so all-pervasive in modern political society that it is next to impossible to frame an ethical course for anybody save a hermit. Some things are right by sanction, and some are not, but the sanctions themselves frequently make no logical sense.

For example, it is considered quite all right for the mayor of an important city to go to Washington in the middle of an election campaign and come home with the announcement that federal funds are about to be channelled to some bit of local urban redevelopment. This is merely a traditional way of attempting to swing a few votes. Everybody accepts this sort of thing as being part of the great game of politics. The result may be to perpetuate a group in paying city hall jobs—but no charges of "influence peddling" are brought.

When Navy Secretary Fred Korth, a former Fort Worth, Texas banker, allegedly uses his personal prestige to help some banks he once headed, it hardly differs in its essential marrow from a tip from a dominant political party that it would be wise for a relief agency to get out those relief checks a week before the elections instead of the week after. But Korth, for his supposed indiscretions, gets it in the neck.

The moral would seem to be that if you want to give—or get—the benefits of "influence" in Washington, you should do it not as an individual but through a registered pressure group.

No individual farmer is licensed by our present moral code to get a special benefit at the expense of his fellow taxpayers. (He might try to do this by faking on his income tax, but if he were caught in the act he would assuredly pay a fine or go to jail.) However, it is perfectly all right for farmers as a group to pressure their senators into giving them special benefits at the expense of all the urban taxpayers taken together.

With group-theft sanctioned by a law that results from the tug of pressure group forces, scandal has been so diffused throughout our society that it doesn't seem scandalous at all. Everybody is licensed to live off everybody else, and who cares?

Even when it comes down to a question of individual benefits in government from "influence," the sanctions of our modern society seem incredibly confused. It was all wrong for Sherman Adams, in Eisenhower's time, to take the "loan" of an oriental rug from industrialist Bernard Goldfine. But it was not wrong in the least for the late Senator Kerr of Oklahoma to pass on legislation affecting his own industrial empire in oil.

In a grey world, the alleged blackness of Bobby Baker, Fred Korth and others is not something that can offend the great masses of society. Since they are all after government largesse, they can only yawn. Moreover, the current type of scandal seems endemic in Washington no matter what party is in power. Truman had his brush with the deep-freeze set; Eisenhower was embarrassed by his Air Secretary, Harold Talbott, who used Pentagon stationery for some unfortunate correspondence. Now Kennedy has his Fred Korth and his Bobby Baker.

Ho hum, the farmers have been getting their $8 billion a year, "area redevelopment" goes where votes are needed, and you and I have been paying for Sukarno's private planes. Why quibble at the cost of Bobby Baker's town house?

Rockefeller May Stop Goldwater On Issues

WASHINGTON

By Joseph Alsop

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's announcement of his Presidential candidacy is comically unsurprising, in the usual manner of formal political unveilings. But some very real surprises are likely to follow this announcement later on.

To begin with, there is at least a possibility that the New York Governor will surprise the wise-ones, who are now so confidently predicting that he will take a bad beating from Sen. Barry Goldwater in both the crucial primaries in New Hampshire and California.

Gov. Rockefeller has a heavy, admitted handicap in his remarriage. Even so, the elaborate advance polls of the Rockefeller organization show that the present Goldwater lead in the two key primary states is no greater than the initial lead of Gov. Averell Harriman in New York in 1958, which Rockefeller then overcame. In addition, Sen. Goldwater also has a heavy handicap, as yet unadmitted.

In brief, the Senator has until recently been taken quite literally at face value, as a handsome, vital fellow around whom Republican right-wingers could rally with ease. Only in the last month or so has attention begun to turn from the Goldwater package to the actual contents of that package.

Two successive major stirs have thus been caused, first because the Senator genially announced that he would like to sell the Tennessee Valley Authority to private enterprise, and then because the Senator blithely remarked that, if he had his way, U. S. field commanders overseas would be authorized to use nuclear warheads whenever they saw fit.

This is, in fact, the sort of thing Sen. Goldwater has been saying for years. But it sounds different, somehow, and it has a lot more impact now that the Senator has come to be regarded as a serious Presidential contender.

It remains to be seen what the full effect will be, but it will hardly be helpful when the Goldwater program gets equal billing with the Goldwater personality—as is sure to happen in the end. Meanwhile, Gov. Rockefeller also seems likely to have more on-the-spot help in the key primaries than most people now suppose.

In California, in particular, the fact that former Sen. William Knowland is planning to lead a pro-Goldwater slate of convention delegates is already widely advertised. But it is probably more significant that California's greatest Republican vote-getter of recent years, Sen. Thomas Kuchel, will almost certainly head the pro-Rockefeller slate.

Sen. Kuchel's motive for plunging into the contest—if he does so—will not be a passionate attachment to the Rockefeller cause. It will instead be a feeling that there will be very little room for men like himself in a Republican Party that choose Sen. Goldwater for its standard-bearer.

This feeling of Sen. Kuchel's, in turn, points to the other surprise which the Rockefeller candidacy is quite certain to produce, whether or not the Governor's showing in the primary fights exceeds present expectations.

The plain truth is that Gov. Rockefeller is grimly determined to go on to the convention, even if he loses in both New Hamp-

OTHER SHIFTS—Speaking of shifting matters in the world of science, The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has been undergoing its greatest office shuffle in five years.

Numerous high ranking officials there are having their jobs and their physical offices changed. New titles are being created. The spate of changes in personnel and titles is proving to be almost more than the pool of secretaries can stand. They've issued informal orders to each other:

"If the boss calls, get his name."

RING-A-DING-A-DOOM!—Rep. Jim Wright of Texas thinks the White House missed a bet by not making that hot line to Moscow a telephone instead of a teletype. Wright claims the telephone is the ultimate weapon in the war of nerves and it could have been used to reduce Premier Khrushchev to a jabbering, helpless psychological wreck.

"A 100-megaton bomb," says Wright, "can do nothing more than destroy and set fire to an area the size of Delaware, and there is always a chance that it might not hit within range. From the telephone, on the other hand, there is no escape. It will seek you out wherever you are."

"Don't get me wrong. I'm only spoofing about all this. The telephone is a magnificent instrument. It serves a truly noble—excuse me a moment please. The blame thing is ringing again!"

Sudden Heart Attacks Are Unpredictable

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

J. W. writes: "Could a person who never had heart trouble get a heart attack?" Yes, and some physicians have had a patient die this way shortly after telling him his heart was normal. This does not occur often but does happen even though the heart sounds good and the electrocardiogram shows no abnormalities.

Why? The usual heart attack is in reality not a disease of the heart itself but of the blood vessels which deliver nourishment and oxygen to the cells of the auricles and ventricles. Blockage of the flow robs a small part of the muscle of its nourishment. The tissue cells die and are replaced with scar tissue.

The basic cause is arteriosclerosis of the coronary arteries. Many years and sometimes decades elapse between the time the vessel begins to harden and the actual occlusion. There is no way to predict how small the passageway is getting until the flow of blood becomes inadequate to meet the needs of the heart during exercise or excitement.

Chest pain (angina pectoris) develops at this time, which is relieved with nitroglycerine, rest, or tranquility. But, all too often, the hardening process is painless and the first clue is a heart attack.

Special tests can be done to visualize the arteries and measure the circulation through these passageways, but they are not practicable at this time. On the other hand, several abnormalities increase the likelihood of coronary thrombosis. These high risk factors include obesity, fatigue, anxiety, hypertension, and a high cholesterol level. But the physician is unable to predict that a heart attack will occur next week just because of high blood pressure and blood cholesterol levels. These conditions only enhance the chances of developing coronary thrombosis.

One of my colleagues concludes his consultation by saying, "I can't find anything wrong with your heart. Please don't embarrass me by having a heart attack when you leave my office."

SLOW HEALING

R. M. writes: My husband had ulcers on his two big toes that would not heal so he had the toes cut off. But they haven't healed and he is in constant pain. He can't walk or work. Is there any way he could be helped?

REPLY

It is difficult to be of help when the reasons for the ulcers are not known. I assume your husband has poor circulation if the foot and stump do not heal because the tissues are not re-

Our Strange Dealings With Russia Show Importance Of Soviet Politics

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., the debonair and delightful Undersecretary of Commerce, was presiding over a closed-door meeting with a Soviet trade delegation on the question of wheat.

Their stumbling block continued to be the higher price required for shipment in U. S. vessels. President Kennedy had specified that half of the American wheat purchased by the Soviet was to be shipped in American bottoms, which means that the cost of the wheat would be about $12 a ton more than if shipped in foreign vessels.

American steamship lines have now offered to scale their price down by $5 a ton, to about $18 a ton. But this leaves a $7 a ton higher charge for using American bottoms. At this the Soviet delegates balked.

Finally Sergei Borisov, first deputy trade minister, argued that it was all right for the United States to subsidize its ships, but that Russia had no intention of subsidizing them.

The higher cost of shipping wheat on American ships actually amounted to a subsidy, Borisov said, and therefore was something the United States should pay. Russia had no intention of doing so.

At this the usually calm and charming FDR Jr. exploded. He said that Russia had better take this deal — or nothing. The United States, he said, was not going to back down on the question of using American ships. If the Soviet didn't take the present proposal, the under-Secretary of Commerce said, he would get together with the labor unions and see that not a single ship was loaded for Russia in American ports.

This startled some of the other American negotiators, because the United States has long contended that American labor unions, unlike Russian unions, are not subservient to the government, in fact are completely independent. Other American negotiators, however, made no comment.

But Deputy Minister Borisov did. In icy tones, he said: "I intend to recommend to my government that it withdraw from these negotiations."

Two days later in Moscow, Khrushchev confirmed this.

U.S.-U.S.S.R. Schizophrenia

There's a sort of schizophrenia in U. S.-Soviet relations today. One minute negotiators in New York, Geneva, Moscow and Washington are all sweetness and light. The next minute they are almost savage.

In New York for instance, diplomats representing small UN members complain that there is an axis between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R., that no move can be made without joint approval by the United States and Russia.

They were especially irked when the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. got together to dictate the terms of a resolution to broaden the test ban treaty to encourage negotiations regarding underground tests. The two big powers were in complete agreement; overruled the small countries.

Again Russia was careful not to upset the United States regarding its race problems in Alabama and Mississippi, even soft-pedaled race problems affecting Portugal. In Moscow, the Soviet press did not mention the church burning in Birmingham. Yet mixed up with this sweetness and light have been the troop delays on the Berlin Autobahn.

In Geneva, meanwhile, Charles Stelle, the U.S. disarmament negotiator, and K. V. Novikov, the Soviet negotiator, got into a bitter verbal battle over West Germany, as to whether it could be trusted, whether it would once again plunge the world into war. Their words had the bitterness of the old cold war days. Yet at other times, the two men have been friendly and reasonable.

Khrushchev's Schizophrenia

Khrushchev himself reflected some of this schizophrenia in his talks with U. S. business leaders. First he said: "They (the American trucks) would have had to move over our dead bodies." Then quickly he added: "We didn't want any friction of that sort. Our desire is to have good and friendly relations."

He emphasized to business leaders that while the Soviet planned to defeat the capitalist world, "we have no thought of war or by means of destroying you in any war. We do not want to build a new life on the ruins of the world."

The experts who are studying this schizophrenia on both sides of the Atlantic explain that it results in large part from the current meeting in Moscow regarding Red China. Communist delegates from all over the world are in Moscow trying to decide what to do about China and its position that the best way to wipe capitalism off the face of the earth is by thermonuclear war.

Khrushchev, according to reliable diplomatic sources, is so sore at the Chinese he would like to break relations and fire them out of the Communist Party. But he has opposition from inside the Kremlin. He is also under some attack for being an appeaser, and for pulling Russian missiles out of Cuba. His position is not unlike Kennedy's who is under attack from the American right wing.

So Khrushchev has to make bellicose noises and create incidents on the Autoban for political reasons at home, just as Kennedy has to be tough in the wheat negotiations to satisfy the Goldwaterites.

Most people don't realize it but politics is beginning to play just about as important a role in the Soviet world as it does in the United States.

French Revolution

By John Crosby

LONDON.

One of the great social revolutions is taking place, almost unnoticed. The French are traveling outside France. This is unheard of. The French, like some wines, don't travel. Or, anyway, they didn't. Of course, they had an empire, but that was different. That was for la gloire, for profit, for patria. Besides, the moment the French got to Indo-China or West Africa or even Quebec, they made it French, talked French, ate French, built French cities.

But as for traveling outside France for amusement, pourquoi? The food was better in France. The wines were superb. The climate was better. The countryside was magnificent. The people? Well, people everywhere are awful but the French, in the French view, less so. Outside France was darkness and barbarians. One subjugated them. Exploited them. But mix with them? Mon Dieu! Eat their food? Sacre bleu! Holiday with them? Incroyable!

But it's happening. The French with their new riches are all over Europe, acting like tourists. In Torremolinos last summer the difference between one year and the next was immense. Two summers ago, there was one French group, all of whom lived in the same house, quite a ways out of town, dominated by a vigorous French journalist named Claude Paillet. Paillet ate one meal prepared by the Spanish cook. Then he elbowed her gently aside and presided over the cooking himself.

The French — we always referred to them that way — used to have dinner parties in which you got delicious Andalusian food, but cooked by a Frenchman and indefinitely French. With extreme and justified trepidation, we'd return the invitation. One always invited them all; there were nine. It was inconceivable to invite just one or two. It was truly one for all and all for one.

"I'm having the French for dinner," you'd say, and everyone knew what you were talking about and sympathized. Not that they weren't marvelous guests. They brought along tons of conversation and good looks and sparkle, but you always felt that underneath all those smiles and good humor the French were appraising your food, your wine, your table manners. It was tense, having the French.

The whole group hated the place and none of them, so far as I know, came back. But that was last year. Last summer the French were all over the landscape. The roads were over-run with French license plates. In one little country lane, I once counted six license plates with the "75" which denotes Paris. There were many others from Toulouse, Auvergne, Lyon. Driving down the east coast of Spain we encountered the French by the hundreds. Sometimes we'd stop in restaurants where nothing except French was spoken.

Pourquoi? Well, Spain is cheap, much cheaper than the Riviera.

Besides, a whole class of French middle class are springing up who could never before afford to go much farther than their own backyards. Now they have cars and money. They're on the move.

And how do they behave? Well, it's not for me to say, so I asked a French journalist. "Like tourists," he said. "The bullring at Malaga is full of French tourists who have never seen a bullfight before. They have cameras hung around their necks just like the Americans and their wives say things like, 'Aren't the costumes pretty?'"

"The other thing they do is complain. The French are the greatest complainers I know. They complain about everything — the service, the heat, the bathrooms, the roads, and of course, the food. Now you know that nothing in France works. Except the food. So what are they complaining about?"

London is full of French, talking French, eating French, looking French. Some of them — I whisper this — even buy their clothes here, partly because clothes are cheap and partly — mon Dieu — because they think English clothes are very chic. What is the world coming to?

And the future? I can just see the French descending on New York in hordes, cameras around their necks, taking pictures of Radio City, getting gyped by taxi drivers, complaining about those greedy Americans who are only interested in their money."

Then one day an enterprising American journalist will dress like a Frenchman, talk terrible French (but in New York who can tell) and go around getting gyped by taxi drivers (as a French journalist went around Paris pretending to be American) and write a flaming expose about how the Americans gyp those poor innocent French. It'll be the shame of New York for maybe 20 minutes.

These things always come out even in the end.

You're Telling Me

Beavers are really lazy and unintelligent, claims a Canadian naturalist. Next thing you know, they'll be telling us that bees are only whiling away the summer when seen looting about flower gardens!

Those post offices representatives from 20 countries now meeting in Washington to discuss world postal problems may find it pretty sticky going.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

"My, my, reminisced a bogus old party at a sportsmen's dinner. 'The tigers I shot in my day in the wilds of Africa.' "Very interesting," interrupted a disgusted listener, "but there doesn't happen to be any tigers in Africa." "Of course not," agreed the old party without batting an eyelash. "I shot them all."

A retired old banker sauntered down the main street of a Southern town on a cloudless spring day sporting a big umbrella. "I'm not the eccentric you take me for," he explained to a young friend who had been eyeing him suspiciously. "Fact is, with my arthritis, I need a stick to help me walk. If I carried one, people would pity me for becoming a helpless old man. I prefer having them say, 'Look at that fool with the umbrella!'"

Who buys more Savings Bonds?

As statistical-minded as we are today, the Treasury Department can't answer that question.

The Treasury does know that U. S. Savings Bonds are owned by tens of millions of families. So it might be safe to assume that people in every walk of life belong to this "savings club."

This is a happy fact for the United States, and for the free peoples of the earth. For Savings Bond dollars are playing an important role today in the making of history.

This $46 billion reserve in the government's hands is working vigorously today to help our country in the major struggle to defend freedom.

At the same time, Savings Bonds help build your personal purchasing power by paying good interest and providing a method of saving that's unconditionally safe and readily cashable. And the higher your purchasing power, the better it speaks for our system.

It all adds up to one of the best ways you can save money and at the same time help your country. Start buying Bonds next payday—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or from any bank—and see if you don't feel pretty good about it.

Quick facts about U. S. Savings Bonds

- You get $4 for every $3 at maturity
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, stolen or destroyed
- You can get your money anytime
- You can save automatically on Payroll Savings

A spirited Bruce High School eleven marched 98 yards for a touchdown after stopping a LaSalle drive at the two-yard line early in the game and went on to score a 12-0 triumph over the Explorers last night at the Stadium.

The prized victory was the fourth in nine games for coach Pete Ladygo's rapidly improving Bruce gridders, who have their sights set on a 500 mark in only their second year of varsity competition. The Bulldogs wind up the 1963 campaign next week against Charles Town at Keyser.

Bruce's first touchdown drive began with 7:28 remaining in the first period. The Bulldogs methodically ground out yardage in small chunks, ending the long haul when Louie Newcomb swept into the end zone from yards out with 9:38 left in the second quarter.

A 35-yard pickup by Newcomb to the seven was the only long gainer in the 20-play series.

Four Thrusts Fail

LaSalle seemed headed for a touchdown following the opening kickoff, moving to the Bruce ten with a first down situation and four cracks at the goal line.

Three thrusts netted only four yards, and on fourth down Bill Maloney made his way to the two but was stopped by the middle of the visitors' defensive line. Maloney had reeled off a 44-yard gain after the kickoff, giving LaSalle a first at the Bruce 23.

The Westernport team's other score came on a sustained drive of 63 yards in the final frame. Quarterback Tom Garcia sneaked across from the three with 5:14 left to play.

Bruce had a third six-pointer called back late in the third quarter. Garcia hit Newcomb with a 17-yard pass at the LaSalle 34 and the latter galloped the remaining distance to paydirt, but the play was nullified by an illegal procedure infraction.

Irish Lose Seventh

The Explorers, who suffered their seventh setback in nine tries, lost the ball on downs at the Bulldogs' 14 early in the second half.

Following Bruce's second TD, the Irish got as far as their opponents' 19 but Wayne Litten dumped Tom Kyhos for an eight-yard loss and on the next play Dave Imperio intercepted a Kyhos aerial to snuff out the last ditch threat.

The summary:

Bruce	12	0	0	0	12
Touchdowns: Louie Newcomb (4-yard run); Tom Garcia (3-yard run).

Loyola High School's Dons of Baltimore come here tonight and will try to crack the eight-game winning streak of Fort Hill High School's Sentinels who need only two more victories for an undefeated season. The opening kickoff is set for 8 o'clock.

It is Fort Hill's first engagement with a Baltimore eleven in 22 years and Charley Lattimer's outfit is hopeful of making a better showing than the Sentinels did when they lost to Baltimore City College, 33-0.

Dons Records 2-3-1

Loyola lost three of its first four games, one a 50-0 trouncing at the hands of Baltimore Poly, but the Dons have shown improvement in their last two outings by battling Patterson Park to a tie and defeating Douglass High School.

It's hard to visualize Loyola, a team that has scored only 37 points in six games while yielding 133, stopping a powerhouse like Fort Hill which has amassed 280 points in eight contests while holding the opposition to 21 tallies yet stranger things have happened in football.

Loyola is quarterbacked by Gary Matz, whose favorite pass receivers are Don Beck and Don Hoen. Mark Schroeder and Jack Cortes are the halfbacks and Dick Diggs the fullback. The Dons have plenty of beef in their forward line in Flynn, who tips the beam at 219 while Fred Levinsky and Lou Kozlowski also are 200-pounders.

This game is the last on Fort Hill's schedule before the finale with Allegany's Campers on Thanksgiving Day.

Catamounts In Final

Coach "Horse" Lough's Potomac State Catamounts windup their season today at Stayman Field, Keyser, playing host to Baltimore Junior College at 2 p.m.

Potomac State has whipped B.J.C. seven consecutive times since the series began in 1949 and the Loughmen would like to wind up a poor season with their second victory. The Catamounts have lost six games and their only victory was over Ferrum (Va.) Junior College.

Baltimore owns a 3-3 record and has scored wins over Lorton School of Virginia, Western Maryland Reserves and New York Aggies while losing to Bainbridge Navy, Wesley Junior College, 28-6, and Montgomery Junior College, 20-0. Three of Potomac's setbacks came at the hands of Bainbridge, 6-0, Montgomery 26-20 and Wesley 32-13.

Bobcats At Grove City

Frostburg State College's Bobcats journey into Pennsylvania today to play Grove City College. Coach Ron Van Ryswyk's gridders have won their last two starts from Gallaudet and Potomac State and are now 5-2 for the season. The Bobcats play at Frederick, Va., and Georgetown University at Washington in the last two games of the season. Last year FSC lost the last game on its schedule to Grove City at Frostburg 13-0 in the initial meeting of the schools.

The Grovers are 2-4 this year with victories over Brockport 36-7 and Carnegie Tech 41-26 while losses were suffered at the hands of Edinboro 27-7, Clarion 24-0, Westminster 32-13 and Geneva 19-6.

Wesleyan Tests Rams

Shepherd College has an opportunity to give Coach Jesse Riggelman his first unbeaten team since he took over the reins at Shepherdstown in 1956 when it plays West Virginia Wesleyan College in West Virginia Conference game today at Buckhannon. The Rams are 7-0-1 going into their last game of the campaign. Wesleyan is 4-2 and Shepherd's last undefeated team (8-0) was coached by Donald Fuoss in 1955.

Kyle Geatz, of St. Peter & Paul, finished in the runner-up spot with 70 points, including 11 touchdowns, while Sam Perlozzo, St. Mary's, was third with 48 and Glen Cross and George Geatz, of St. Patrick's, finished fourth and fifth with 43 and 40 tallies, respectively.

30,000 To See Navy And Terps Tangle Today

Staubach, Shiner Duel Is Expected

By The Associated Press

A duel between two fine quarterbacks, the return of a former Navy star against his ex-teams, and a natural rivalry between two hard-hitting football teams are ingredients for the 18th meeting of Maryland and Navy Saturday.

The state's top football attraction will fill Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium at Annapolis with more than 30,000 for only the second time in its five-year history. The previous capacity crowd saw Navy topple Pitt, 24-14, earlier this year.

Many of the fans will want to see whether Roger Staubach, the spectacular Middle quarterback, is all that he is publicized to be. He has shown in seven previous games that he is.

Others fancy an upset by a Maryland team which is better than its 2-5 record indicates and which knocked off another service academy team, Air Force, 21-14 at College Park.

Navy, beaten only by Southern Methodist 32-28 in a wild offensive scramble, is ranked No. 4 nationally and is listed by oddsmakers as a 14-point favorite.

Maryland is led by Dick Shiner, the top quarterback at the Atlantic Coast Conference. He will match his passing skills against Staubach's sometimes-pass, sometimes-run exploits.

Allegany At Beall Game Rescheduled Today At 2 P.M.

Rain yesterday forced postponement of the football game between Allegany High School and Beall High School until today at 2 p.m., at Beall High School stadium.

The game was scheduled for last night in the Mountain City.

The change gives Allegany three successive afternoon games after seven straight nocturnal contests. The Campers play Annapolis High here a week from today and close with Fort Hill on Thanksgiving Day.

Rod Thorn Fails Army Physical

BALTIMORE (AP)—Rod Thorn, rookie with the Baltimore Bullets, has failed to pass an Army physical examination, the National Basketball Association team announced Friday.

A Bullets spokesman said Thorn was examined earlier in the day by physicians at nearby Ft. Holabird but was given no reason for his rejection.

He said Thorn was told details would be relayed to his local draft board.

Thorn, a former West Virginia University star, was the Bullets' No. 1 draft choice and has been averaging 12.7 points a game in the NBA.

In Princeton, W. Va., Thorn's father, Joe, said the young basketball ace "probably failed because of a bad ear and the fact that he is color-blind."

Thorn was hit in the ear last spring while playing first base on the West Virginia University baseball team. He has been color-blind since birth.

"It doesn't surprise me in the least that he failed the army physical," Thorn's father said.

Palmer Grabs Tourney Lead

Ken Nagle's 146 Trails By Stroke

By GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Arnold Palmer salvaged a 77 in gusty, 50-mile-per-hour winds Friday for a 145 which gave him a one-stroke lead over Australia's Kel Nagle at the halfway point of the 72-hole Wills Masters golf tournament.

Palmer's Canada Cup teammate, Jack Nicklaus, took a 9 on a par-five hole and finished also at 77 for 151, six shots off the pace.

The high winds, blowing in from the ocean over the Lakes Course, were so changeable and tricky that none of the competitors was able to break the par 72. However, Bruce Devlin of Australia managed to match par, to go with an opening 77.

Going into the third round, Palmer led with 68-77-145, followed by Nagle, 67-79-147; Gary Player of South Africa, 70-77-147; Peter Thomson of Australia, 72-77-149; Devlin, 77-72-149; and Ron Howell, an American now living in Sydney, 71-79-150.

One of the favorites, left-handed Bob Charles of New Zealand, the British Open champion, barely survived the cut after shooting a pair of 78s.

Navy Plebes Top Maryland, 28-7

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Felix Bassi passed for three touchdowns, kicked two extra points and passed for a two-point conversion Friday as the Navy Plebes whipped the Maryland Freshmen 28-7 in a prelude to Saturday's varsity football game between the two rivals.

The 185-pound quarterback from West Babylon, N.Y., staged a performance rivaling that of varsity star Roger Staubach as he led the undefeated Plebes to their fifth straight victory.

Maryland, which also was unbeaten in three games although tied a battle of it for the first half and became the first team to score on the Plebes when tailback Bo Hickey plunged over from the 1 to cap a 70-yard drive in the first quarter.

Cancel Telecast

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. said Friday the network had decided against televising the Blue and Gray football game at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 28 after being advised Negro players could not participate.

A spokesman said the action was decided upon after consultation with sponsors of the scheduled telecast—Gillette Co. and Chrysler Corp.

The spokesman said the Blue and Gray Association informed NBC that Negro players would not be eligible to participate in the game.

Market Has Best Gain

More Than Two Weeks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Continuing strength in aerospace issues Friday paced the best stock market advance in over two weeks.

Dow-Jones industrial average finished up 5.15, its best gain since the 5.32 of Oct. 24. Trading amounted to 4,570,000 shares, compared with 4,320,000 Thursday.

Gains in the aerospace group began earlier in the week on reports that Russia has not counted itself out of the moon race. Texas Instruments advanced 2½, RCA 2½, Motorola 1½, Minneapolis-Honeywell 3½, IBM 3, Control Data 2¼, Beckman 3½, North American Aviation 2¼, McDonnell 2¼, Lockheed 1¼, Grumman 1½ and United Aircraft, trading ex-dividend 1¼.

Dow - Jones rails moved up 1.64, their sharpest advance since the 3.12 of Aug. 28. Chrysler responsible for this week's gains of 1½ each in Chicago, North Western and Great Northern and a point in Norfolk Western. Strength in this section followed a slight jump in railroad freight carloadings.

Dow-Jones utilities inched up 0.24. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index advanced 0.50. Of the 1,327 issues traded, 656 advanced and 387 declined — 7 to new 1963 highs and 22 to new lows.

Autos were irregularly higher, mirroring reports that auto output is headed for a new record this week. Chrysler moved up 2½ and American Motors 1½ but General Motors, trading ex-dividend, eased ½.

Steels were firm. Alcoa improved 1¼ in the metals.

U. S. Smelting lost ¾, still reacting to news that dissident stockholders plan to file an appeal against a court order barring them from placing nominees on the board of directors.

Xerox, which Thursday proposed a 5-for-1 stock split, doubled its dividend, advanced 16.

American Photocopy topped the most active list, up ¼ to 98.900 shares. This was followed by Martin Marietta up ¾, Xerox, Studebaker off ½ and American Motors.

Stocks on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly higher on a turnover of 1,380,000 shares compared with 1,170,000 Thursday.

Man Sentenced Under Home Repair Law

Failed To Obtain State License

A 25-year-old local man yesterday was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction on a violation of the recent Home Improvement Law. This was the first application locally of the new law, which went into effect only last year.

The man, King Carey, 208 Maryland Avenue, was sentenced to a year in jail by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt for not obtaining the necessary license from the state to engage in the home improvement business.

Magistrate Weatherholt also found Carey guilty of failing to complete a home improvement contract in which he had engaged with Mrs. Mildred Mauk, 226 Emily Street. Carey was sentenced to six months on this charge but the magistrate ruled the terms may run concurrently.

Paid $479

At the trial yesterday afternoon in Trial Magistrate Court, Mrs. Mauk testified that she had entered into a written contract with Carey to do certain specified repairs on her property at a cost of $450. Mrs. Mauk said Carey didn't complete the work, and what repairs he did make were unsatisfactory.

Mrs. Mauk said she made another oral contract with Carey for $125 for a paint job. However, Mrs. Mauk said this job wasn't completed either and that she paid Carey a total of $479 for the two jobs.

Donald W. Mason, deputy state attorney, said his office checked with the Maryland Home Improvement Commission in Baltimore, and learned Carey did not have a license to engage in the home improvement business.

Lt. Thomas J. See of the City Police Department arrested Carey in connection with the violations which occurred early last month. Carey was represented by Attorney Ronald Brubaker.

The Home Improvement Law, which became effective in April, 1962, requires that persons who engage in home repairs obtain a license if any of the jobs they contract for exceed $300.

Law Explained

The Maryland Home Improvement Commission said the new law was enacted to help protect property owners. Persons who apply for licenses to engage in this business are carefully investigated and once the license is granted it must be renewed each year. The cost of the license is $25.

The commission said licenses are not granted to persons or firms considered untrustworthy or not of good character, or to persons who have made it a practice to fail to fulfill contracts by fraud or bad faith.

Doing business without a license can be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or a jail term not exceeding two years, or both.

Persons convicted of failing to fulfill a contract may be fined up to $1,000 or imprisoned up to six months, or both.

Slim-Nastics Classes Set

The second and third series of slim-nastics classes will begin at Central YMCA Tuesday with sessions scheduled at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m.

The theme of the classes will be dance rhythms applied to basic body building exercises. Both classes will be held five weeks on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the scheduled times. Recreational swimming or the Health Club will be available following the classes.

The objective of the classes is to provide basic physical exercises for the purpose of fitness, body tone and grooming. Supplementing the musical rhythms will be the use of basic dance steps applied to an exercise program.

The program is a regular feature for Y members but non-members may register for a nominal fee.

Red Cross Blood Work Outlined; Support Urged

Junior College Students Will Converge Here

About 200 student leaders from 13 junior colleges in Maryland will converge on Allegany Community College here Saturday, November 23, for the fall meeting of the Maryland Association of Junior Colleges' Student Association.

William Beaver of Montgomery Junior College is president of the state association. Warren White, president of the Student Body of Allegany Community College, is in charge of local arrangements.

Activities will start Friday night, November 22, with a hoot-nanny and dance in the ACC gymnasium.

Registration is scheduled for Saturday morning. There will be a coffee hour in the auditorium and the delegates will be divided into five major workshops for morning discussion. "Problems of Student Government" will be the general theme of the meeting.

Luncheon will be served at noon at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club and the session is expected to end about 3 p. m. after reports on the five workshops.

Public Schools Plan Shortened Session Monday

For the second time this school year there will be a shortened school day Monday as Allegany County public school teachers are given released time Monday afternoon.

Although the school cafeterias will operate Monday, the high schools will end classes at 12:30 p. m. and the elementary schools at 12:50 p. m. The first of these shortened school days was September 23. There will be other free Monday afternoons in January, March and May.

Steam Line Breaks; Firemen Are Called

Shipe Receives Five-Year Term

Robert Jackson Shipe, 59, of Homewood Addition, yesterday was sentenced by Associate Judge W. Earle Cohey to five years in the Maryland Penitentiary on charges of attempted carnal knowledge of a 12-year-old girl.

Shipe was found guilty October 23 in Allegany County Circuit Court by Judge Cohey on the second count of a criminal information against him. The five-year sentence dates from July 26, the day on which the man was arrested.

He has been in the County Jail ever since.

Red Cross Blood Work Outlined; Support Urged

Representatives of area health agencies heard an explanation of the Red Cross blood program and a plea for continued strong support at a luncheon-meeting yesterday in the grill room of the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Mrs. Betty Vizi, coordinator of the Johnstown Blood Center, conducted the meeting of about 40 persons. Also attending was Frank O'Connor of Alexandria, Va., Eastern area field representative.

She said the Johnstown center, one of 56 such regional centers in the U.S., now is collecting blood at the rate of 37,500 pints a year, supplying the entire blood needs of 45 civilian hospitals and three Veterans Administration hospitals in 20 counties of Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia.

The center opened in June 1949, one of the first to be started after the Red Cross launched its blood program in 1948. The Johnstown center expects to collect its half-millionth pint sometime next spring.

Mrs. Vizi said the Johnstown center is able to collect and process blood at a cost below the national average of $6.82 a bottle. The average in the Johnstown center's area is $4.76 a bottle. The figures include the costs of end blood products, blood fractions, and research and development.

But because whole blood keeps only a short time, not all blood collected can be used for transfusions. Thus the cost of collecting a pint of usable blood in the Johnstown center's area is over $7 a pint.

More than two-thirds of the cost is borne by the American National Red Cross and by local chapters. Less than one-third of the cost comes from hospital contributions to the blood program.

In this area, hospital contributions are $4 per pint used. This cost may be passed on to the patient, along with whatever the hospital charges for typing and cross-matching to make sure the patient gets compatible blood.

In answer to a question, Dr. Lester Kiefer, staff pathologist at Memorial Hospital, said the typing and cross-matching charge at Memorial normally will be $6, making the total cost of administering a pint of blood $10. But the laboratory charge may be $10 to $14 per pint instead of $6 if the cross-matching is more difficult.

Mrs. Vizi pointed out that the $4 the hospital pays to the Red Cross and for which it charges the patient still does not represent the cost of the blood itself, but rather a share of the Red Cross' expense in collecting the blood.

Urges Continued Support

After detailed explanation of the administrative side of the program during a question-and-answer session, Dr. Kiefer voiced a strong plea for continued support of the blood program in this area.

"If we're to depend on the Red Cross to supply all our blood needs, then that means we must help support the blood program," he said.

"If your child or your husband needs blood, then all this administrative protocol doesn't mean a darned thing. You want blood. We must impress on people that just because there is no war or disaster or nuclear holocaust, the Red Cross is not passe, but is a live, progressing program that needs our support."

Equity Suits Filed

Two new equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Charles William Switzer Sr. vs. Virginia June Edenhart Switzer, and Barbara Rachel Snider, by Edith S. Walker, her mother and next friend, vs. DeWayne Leroy Snider.

Miss Lowndes Leaves Home To Library

The will of Miss Elizabeth Lloyd Lowndes, last local survivor of a prominent Maryland family, was filed for probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Under its terms, the residence of Miss Lowndes at 27 Washington Street is offered to the Board of Commissioners of Allegany County for the use and benefit of the Board of Trustees of Allegany County Library.

The terms of the will state that the residence should be used as an auxiliary to the nearby main County Library, and especially to provide comfortable and commodious reading rooms for the use of library patrons.

It is provided that the residence shall be open on the same days and hours the main library is open, and that admission shall be free.

The will further stipulates that the Board of Commissioners are to care for and maintain the residence, and carry sufficient insurance to enable it to repair the structure or construct another building thereon for the above purposes in the event the present home be damaged or destroyed by fire or other casualty.

The County Commissioners are given 60 days from the date of Miss Lowndes' death to accept the gift. In the event they do not do so, the residence is to be given to the Board of Education upon condition that it should be used for purposes auxiliary to the administration of public education in Allegany County.

John H. Mosner, 743 Fayette Street, qualified as executor of Miss Lowndes' estate under $10,000 bond. He was bequeathed the house which Miss Lowndes owned directly behind her home place at 11 Prospect Square.

After providing several specific bequests, the residue of Miss Lowndes' estate is divided into 18 parts, one of which is given to Emmanuel Episcopal parish for the purpose of making improvements, repairs or betterments to Emmanuel Church, the parish house and Emmanuel House, or to purchase furniture, furnishings, fixtures or other personal property to be used in connection with any of the buildings.

The remainder of the estate goes to the nephews, nieces, grandnephews and grandnieces of Miss Lowndes.

The First-Second National Bank and Trust Company is trustee of the will.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners said it would meet with the County Library Board of Trustees to discuss the offer.

The commissioners expressed their appreciation for the offer.

Officers Bring Walter Back To Face Trial

Escapace Waives Extradition Here

James R. Walter, 24-year-old Flintstone man, was brought back "home" to the Allegany County Jail about 2:30 p. m. yesterday to face some 14 charges of breaking and entering as well as jailbreak.

The Flintstone man, who had been indecisive ever since his arrest Tuesday afternoon near Chaneyville, Pa., by Pennsylvania State Trooper Bernard Zukus, decided yesterday before Judge Richard Snyder in Bedford County Circuit Court to waive his right to an extradition hearing before returning to Maryland.

In Leg Irons

Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein, Deputy Sheriff Lewis E. Tyree, Deputy Sheriff George B. Staup and Tfc. Bernard J. Chabot, State Police criminal investigator, brought Walter back from Bedford in leg irons yesterday afternoon.

Two escapes from the Allegany County Jail are among six credited or charged to Walter. He escaped from the County Jail first on September 25 and again on October 22, just one week after his recapture in the Flintstone area. He also twice broke out of the Ripley, W. Va., jail and has been successful in escaping once each from the City Jail here and from the jail at Titusville, Fla., from which he fled just last week.

Trial Date Uncertain

The leg irons remained on Walter after he was placed in his cell here yesterday afternoon. Deputies said that four locks stand between the Flintstone man and his freedom.

When Walter will be brought into Circuit Court for trial was uncertain last night. Neither his court-appointed attorney, John M. Robb, nor State's Attorney James S. Getty could be reached for comment upon a likely trial date.

Dolores Jean Barkin, 21, also of Flintstone, described as Walter's "girl friend," pleaded guilty October 23 to breaking into the Flintstone School, Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris has deferred passing sentence.

City Voting Rolls Take Sharp Drop

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland dropped sharply during October as the names of voters who failed to cast a ballot in a city election during the past five years were removed.

The registration rolls decreased 1,827 during the month and stood at 9,082 on November 1, according to the monthly report of the City Registration Office.

The list is far from rock bottom, however, as only 6,842 of the 10,486 registered voters cast ballots in the June 1962 general municipal election, and only 71.8 per cent of the 10,944 registered voters took part in the fluoridation referendum this May.

A total of 179 voters were registered during October and most of them were citizens whose names had been removed.

Included in the new registrants were 66 white and seven colored males and 97 white and nine colored females.

The names of 10 deceased voters were stricken from the records. Stricken from the books for failure to vote during a five-year period were 1,996 voters. They included 927 white and 22 colored males and 1,023 white and 24 colored females.

Registered on November 1 were 4,719 white males, 102 colored males, 4,177 white females and 84 colored females for a total of 9,082.

City Asks Bids For Water Line Relocation Job

Bids for the relocation of a section of 36-inch of water main in the vicinity of Fort Avenue are being asked by G. Ray Light, commissioner of water and electric light.

The bids will be opened by the Mayor and Council on November 25 at 10 a. m. in City Hall.

The work will include the installation of about 204 feet of reinforced concrete water main and needed fittings.

The decision to replace rather than repair the leaking section was made after it was found that the only safe and economical method of stopping the leaks was to lay a new section of line.

The leaking section is part of the reinforced concrete water main, laid some 40 years ago to replace the wooden-stave line laid, for economy reasons, when the water system was established at Lake Gordon in 1911.

Officials explained that when the line was laid along side of the mountain it was found necessary to build a retaining wall to protect it.

Considerable engineering study followed when the leaks developed. Since the pipe is laid so close to the retaining wall, it was found that joints could be closed only if holes were cut in the retaining wall to allow the joints to be caulked and banded before they were encased in concrete.

Another possibility considered when the decision was made was that the whole section of pipe might be carried away if the retaining wall were to fail while holes were being cut to allow the repairs on the leaking line.

Y Rec Club Forms Council

A Rec Club Council has been organized by Central YMCA for its dances held each Friday from 8:30 to 11:30 p. m., according to Benjamin F. Haines, program director.

Officers elected at the first meeting include: Linda Golden, president; Jane Brant, vice president; and Peggy Alburts, secretary-treasurer. Fifteen members form the council which serves as the teen-age governing body of the Y Rec Club.

Mr. Haines said 600 teen-agers were registered as members of the club during October. This is twice the number registered at the same time last year.

Rec Club membership cards may be applied for each Friday night at the main desk. The card is required for admission to Rec Club dances and other functions.

Urban Renewal Planning Pact Meeting Slated

Early Start On Project Expected

The Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency will review the first draft of a proposed contract with its planning consultants at a meeting scheduled Monday night.

The pact will be presented to the five-man board at a meeting set at 7:30 p. m. in the CURA office in City Hall. Marion T. Powers, chairman, will preside.

The agency has selected the Pittsburgh firm of Simonds and Simonds, internationally famous in the field of urban design, to prepare the physical plans for the general neighborhood renewal plan for the center of the city. The firm would do the planning work for the projects for which the agency recently received approval from the Urban Renewal Administration.

Discuss Pacts

Details of the pact with the government and with Simonds and Simonds were discussed this week as William F. DeMare, executive director of CURA, met here with Alan Cuthbertson, Philadelphia, field representative of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

During the work session, Mr. Cuthbertson formally advised the agency of commitments made by the government for the program here and set forth the steps to be taken by the agency.

Mr. DeMare said details of the planning pact were resolved during the conference, and that Jack Seay, Pittsburgh, a member of a Simonds and Simonds staff, was invited to sit in on the coming meeting.

Mr. DeMare said the agency has already started work on the local projects and that planning studies will be started by the Pittsburgh firm as soon as a formal pact is signed.

Funds Provided

The agency will also be asked to sign a contract with the Urban Renewal Agency which will set forth the terms for the use of planning grants to get the program started.

Included is a $76,950 advance of funds for the preparation of plans for the 10-year program for rehabilitating the 211-acre center of the city area and $72,500 for making surveys and planning the George Street project, one of five phases of the Center City plan.

The government has also set aside a capital grant of $1,556,282 which is estimated to be the government's share of the cost of the George Street project.

Pennsylvania State Police reported the two women were on Route 30 in Schellsburg when they were struck by a car operated by Blair Hillegas, 56, of Schellsburg.

A coroner's inquest will be held when state police complete their investigation.

Plans Home Here

Ervin L. Ross, 624 Elm Street, secured a permit from the City of Cumberland to build a one-story dwelling at 124 Blackiston Avenue. It will be 26 by 40 feet and of concrete block construction.

SHE'S GOT BOYS IN UPROAR — Carol Lynley the Yum-Yum Girl, is the luscious object of Jack Lemmon's affection in Columbia's comedy in color "Under the Yum Yum Tree." Carol's fast becoming a sex-symbol in the movies.

Zina Bethune Of 'Nurses' To Dance On Judy Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Beneath the antiseptic nurse's uniform of actress Zina Bethune beats the heart of a ballerina, and later this month she will demonstrate her hidden talent on the Judy Garland show.

Until now Zina has been imprisoned in her starched melodramatic series, "The Nurses," a Florence Nightingale of television.

In tights, leotard and with her blonde hair cascading over her shoulders this week, Zina looked as un-nurse-like as can be imagined. The pretty little 18-year-old was downright sexy rehearsing for the show.

It was necessary to write Zina out of a segment of her own CBS-TV series to spring her from this appearance as a dancer and sprightly conversationalist-singer for the Garland show.

Dedicated Dancer

And she's delighted with her trip to the West Coast.

"I think I need to let people know I can dance and do other things," she said, taking a breather. "Dancing is as much a part of my life as acting, and I want to do both."

Zina, a native New Yorker, is one of those dedicated dancers who has attended ballet classes since the age of six. She works in "The Nurses" from 7 in the morning until 7 at night, then pirouettes away for two hours of dancing school.

She appeared for eight years with George Balanchine's City Center Company in New York. She's a pro.

"People tell me I'm crazy, wanting to be both dancer and actress," she said. "But I'm stubborn enough to keep trying. I guess that makes me different from the rest of my generation."

"I'm impatient with my contemporaries — other teen-agers. They just seem to be drifting along, wasting time. You never know how long you're going to live, so I want to accomplish as much as possible as soon as possible. My confused generation doesn't know where it's going. But I do."

Self Educated

She left school in the seventh grade to push her acting career. However, she still continues to educate herself.

"I learned responsibility and discipline by growing up as a performer," Zina said. "After all, there were more adults than children in my world, and I had to adjust myself to grown up standards. They weren't about to change their's for me."

"There are movies I'd like to do. Television shows. Broadway plays. I'm impatient to keep moving ahead."

At 18, Zina Bethune's pace has been swift enough to satisfy many a star. But not fast enough for her.

Compass Theater Plan Announced

NEW YORK (AP) — A school to train players for the currently popular fad of improvisational theater is being established by some of the initial practitioners.

Called the Compass School, its teachers include Paul Sills, director of off-Broadway's hit "The Second City," and George Morrison, member of a rival entertainment, "The Premise." Founder of the project is David Shepherd, who established the Compass theater in Chicago in 1955.

Offer Tickets

NEW YORK (AP) — A new trading stamp project is seeking to stimulate Broadway showgoing by offering tickets as shopping premiums.

Two productions, "Chips With Everything" and "Enter Laughing," are the first to test the plan. If public response justifies, the sponsors will expand the trading assortment to include movies, sports and concerts.

Leon Ames Gets Part In 'Mr. Ed'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Thank Heaven I don't have any children," said Leon Ames as he prepared to move in the same block with the loquacious horse, "Mister Ed."

Ames' lease reads for 13 weeks, but chances are he'll be hanging around much longer. As one of the best character-comedy actors around, he was an ideal choice to replace the late Larry Keating as Alan Young's neighbor on the popular CBS show.

"I wouldn't be sorry if I move in forever," said Ames. "The character I play is an interesting human being and I'm working with Alan, a man who knows his comedy. The pay is fine."

"Heck, I even like that horse. He even scares me, he's so smart."

The gimmick is this: Ames is Alan's old Army colonel, now retired, and he comes to town with his wife, looking for a place to settle. A stickler for fitness, the colonel decides that Ed is 40 pounds overweight. That's when the fun starts.

The colonel and his wife have no children, which pleases Ames greatly. Does this appear unseemly for a man with two grown children of his own?

Perhaps so, but he doesn't care. Leon has already starred in two television series — "Life With Father" and "Father of the Bride."

The former ran for 2½ years and found him working with a variety of red-haired youngsters as Father Day. The latter lasted a season, and he terms it "the most miserable experience of my career."

"People were beginning to think I couldn't play anything but fathers," said Ames, who parented Elizabeth Taylor, Margaret O'Brien, Jane Powell and others during his MGM days.

Frisco Film Festival Has New Impetus

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The general opinion here is that its seventh running, the San Francisco Film Festival has reached maturity.

Official support was never so strong; the governor of California attended the premiere for the first time. Hollywood at long last gave its partial benediction, contributing a top film, "The Victors," and a sprinkling of names to give needed glamor.

Talk in the film industry of a full-fledged festival in Hollywood or Washington has become less evident. The reason appears simple: Who is going to pay the bills? The studios no longer have money to lavish on such proposals.

Even San Francisco has had its rough financial waters. Last year the mayor stormed out of a satirical film about a girlie magazine, declaring the city shouldn't support such trash. The city halted its appropriation.

But director Irving Levin, to whom the festival has been a one-man crusade, manages to find the backing to put on the event in first-class style. He has nursed his baby from its opening night in 1957 with 300 in attendance to its present status as an important event of the international film world.

The Soviet delegation reported on American films that have proved popular in their country. One popular new release is "To Be Or Not To Be"—which featured Jack Benny and Carole Lombard in 1941.

Others of more recent vintage that have drawn approval by the Russians: "West Side Story," "The Great Escape," "Judgment At Nuremberg," "The Magnificent Seven," "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," "The Defiant Ones."

"There are lots of funny men around," Ed said. "To me, a comedian is not a man who says funny things. To me, a comedian is a man who says things funny. There's a difference there."

"There is nothing so necessary, so essential to a community or the world at large as amusement. Amusement in my cictionary means laughter."

Liz, Richard, Ava And Sue At Same Movie Location Makes Things Tense

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico —(NEA)—Ava Gardner brought her fears, frustrations and the bikiniest of bikinis.

Deborah Kerr brought her icy poise, and Sue (Lolita) Lyon brought her ambitions and her boy friend.

John Huston, the director, came with his followers, his disciples, and his usual flair for on and off-stage dramatics.

A blond young giant of a man came with the name of Rufus King Ward IV, the nickname of "Skip," and the gripe, "I've been in 100 television shows, but no one knows who I am."

Richard Burton came unshaven with a friend named Liz in white shorts and red bandana around her head who sips a tall cold drink and says:

"I really don't care if I ever appear in another movie."

With per-picture price of $1 million plus 10 per cent and her current "togetherness happiness" with Burton, the odds were with Liz in her willingness to stay off the screen. But no one took her seriously. About retiring, at least.

ALL THIS ADDED UP to a meeting of unpredictable, explosive characters — or to a cast of looney Tennessee Williams "people" with strange problems.

Except for Liz, who came to watch (sometimes suspiciously), that's what they were — a cast of characters for the film version of Williams' play, "The Night of the Iguana."

"Spooked," the script said about them as fictional characters.

As real life characters, they had "spooky" problems of their own.

About everything, a young Mexican lad wearing only swimming shorts grins: "Poco loco." That means "a little crazy" in his language.

He is at the wheel of the red and white speedboat — throttle at "full" — making the six-mile water taxi trip to Mismaloya on the remote west coast of Mexico, where the film is being made.

The way to Mismaloya from Vallarta is only by sea.

It is 100-degrees hot, and humid. An incredibly blue sea is glassy. The coast line, 500 yards to port, is wildly beautiful and trackless. White, sandy beaches fringe a green jungle of tropical growth studded with coconut palm and banana trees. Cream puff

Ed Wynn Still Tops In Business

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Veteran performer Ed Wynn is still going strong, seven years after "Madison Ave. said Wynn is getting old."

"They didn't want me anymore," said Wynn of his television comedy career at that time.

Since then Wynn, 77, has kept busy in movies and television, but not as a comedian. His efforts in recent years have been as a dramatic actor.

During lunch in Walt Disney's studio commissary Ed spoke of his latest picture "Those Crazy Calloways" and of his more than 60 years as an entertainer.

"Here," he said, handing over a piece of paper on which was written a list of movie and television titles. "There isn't any actor my age in the world who has worked that much this year."

When television's brass decided it was time to put Ed out to pasture, the veteran funny man sought advice from his talented son, Keenan. Ed still recalls their conversation.

"Keenan said, 'Railroad tracks are made of steel and they don't last 50 years. How do you expect your comedy to last forever. Why don't you retire, you don't need the money.' 'I told Keenan that I wasn't acting for money, I was acting for my life.'"

The old gentleman then recalled how his son said, "The one actor who will be remembered the longest will be remembered not for his acting but because he shot Abraham Lincoln."

Wynn is an active senior citizen. He's opposed to compulsory retirement and insists on working as long as he can.

Comedy is having a comeback on television and in movies. And the so-called "sick" comedian seems to be on the decline.

"There are lots of funny men around," Ed said. "To me, a comedian is not a man who says funny things. To me, a comedian is a man who says things funny. There's a difference there."

"There is nothing so necessary, so essential to a community or the world at large as amusement. Amusement in my cictionary means laughter."

Greta Thyssen Too Shapely For The Stage

NEW YORK (AP) — Greta Thyssen says feminine curves can handicap an acting career.

The shapely performer has appeared on the screen, TV and in stock productions, but has yet to appear on Broadway.

"I want to be a serious actress," she declares, "but many producers don't take me seriously when they see my figure. I get my best roles in the winter and spring when I can keep my coat on."

Miss Thyssen may get a Broadway chance in a stage version of "Lady Chatterley's Lover" that is on the tentative production schedule.

clouds encircle green mountain peaks.

MISMALOYA IS TUCKED into one corner of a 30-mile wide, horseshoe-shaped bay. It is a little cove guarded seaward by two emerald green sugarloaf islands. Not until the speedboat roars through the narrow sea corridor between the islands does Mismaloya reveal itself as a tropical Shangri La.

On a green knoll, almost hidden by palm trees, is a palm-roofed resort hotel built for the film. Below the hotel, at the edge of the deep blue water, there are huge, jagged rocks.

Just three months ago there was nothing here.

"Poco loco" and "spooked" are appropriate words indeed.

THE SPEEDBOAT STOPS at an improvised dock with a ship's boarding ladder which has been built over two huge boulders. Nearby is a wide, sandy beach off which two flying-bridge sports cruisers ride at anchor.

A path up from the dock leads to an open-air cocktail bar covered by a tall, cone-shaped roof, also of palms. On a spiked rock beside the path a large sign reads, "NO VISITORS."

Just three months ago there was nothing here.

"Poco loco" and "spooked" are appropriate words indeed.

'It's A Mad, Mad World' Termed Funniest Ever

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Producer Stanley Kramer is king of the celluloid mountain this week.

The longtime producer of powerful message pictures and stark social drama has turned out a movie that is destined to be rated as the funniest ever made.

It cost Kramer $10 million to make "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," and he figures it was worth every penny.

He also insists it has a "message," to wit: There is no limit to which greed will push human beings. In this case the uproariously greedy people are Sid Caesar, Milton Berle, Phil Silvers, Terry Thomas, Ethel Merman, Jonathan Winters, Buddy Hackett, Mickey Rooney, Jimmy Durante, Ben Blue, Edie Adams and a dozen others.

"Mad World" is so funny it may discourage other moviemakers from producing comedies for years. Kramer purposely made it the comedy to end all comedies.

A special cinerama theater was built in Los Angeles to accommodate the picture which Kramer expects will play in some theaters for as long as three years.

To kick off this movie in style, Kramer imported more than 200 entertainment editors from across the United States and from Europe for a three-day round of parties with his stars, culminating in the premiere of "Mad World" last Sunday night.

"We tried to make the best movie of all time," Kramer said. "I hope we've succeeded."

"Directing this comedy was as serious business and as painstaking as any of the dramatic pictures I've made. It covers everything from broad slapstick to subtle humor."

The producer-director's only other fling at comedy was a little bomb titled "So This Is New York," starring Jack Parr. It was so bad Kramer went right back to heavy drama, turning out "Death Of A Salesman," "High Noon," "Caine Mutiny," "The Defiant Ones" and "Judgment At Nuremberg."

But Kramer's reputation as a distinguished maker of high drama may be displaced by acclaim for "Mad World."

One of the peculiarities of the film is that only one of its stars is a true movie personality, and he is the least likely actor you'd expect to find in this zany

Show Biz Stars Unhappy On TV Despite Rewards

By ERSKINE JONHSON

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA)—Eyes strained after years of television viewing? Jittery this morning because of a late, late show? Don't complain you television fans. You're lucky.

Television stars are the ones who really have the headaches. Never before in show business have so many suddenly become so rich, so famous — and so unhappy.

Call it the day of the unhappy television millionaire.

The hectic, high - tension demands of television blended with the highly emotional natures of talented people is the foundation for the unhappiness. Television's demands are insatiable but as capricious as a roulette wheel.

To be liked is the goal of the entertainer. To be "wanted" means even more than money to both.

For the actor, television blends riches with type casting so indelible that stars lose personal identity in the characters they play—a fate they look upon as worse than death.

For instance, seven years as the Paladin of "Have Gun Will Travel" made Richard Boone a millionaire, gave him the chance to retire and enjoy the easy life. But he's back this season, working harder than ever on "The Richard Boone Show."

"Gunsmoke" put Dennis Weaver in the big money. But being typed as the limping Chester has turned his career into miserable frustration.

In attempting to escape from Dodge City, Weaver has made three bids for a series of his own far from the West. He has appeared, in white tie and tails, as a singer on a television variety show.

Old Walter Brennan, a movie Oscar winner way back in 1936, became a millionaire for the second time via "The Real McCoys." Gone fishing now? Nope, returns to home screens next season in a new series in which he plays a business tycoon.

"I'd be miserable in retirement," he says, and he's probably right. He's the essence of unhappiness when he's not working.

A rich man today, Raymond Burr is worried about the image of "Perry Mason" haunting his acting career when the series ends — and all series eventually do end, you know. The quick end of the "Betty Hutton Show" left the onetime Hollywood star in such an emotional state that friends worried about her health.

At the more personal level, television's long working hours and nervous strain cost Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz their marriage. Jim Arness' marriage ended in a legal separation. His "Gunsmoke" fame and fortune were blamed.

The backstage television picture is not all unhappiness, of course. Its rich rewards have favored many, tempering their ambitions. But for many others, television breeds unhappiness in its pressures, its insatiable demands, its rating wars with top shows opposite one another, its overexposure, its type casting and, above all, in its frequent instability based on the whims of sponsors and the second-guessing of advertising agents.

True Secretary

Barbara Hale, "Perry Mason's" television secretary, took a night school course in shorthand to add verisimilitude to her role.

Places to Go - Things to do

CUMBERLAND, MD. TIMES-NEWS, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1963

WILL PLAY HERE — Charles Rosen, a gifted American pianist, will present a concert starting at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, November 14, in the Fort Hill High School auditorium. This will be the second concert of the current season of the Tri-State Community Concert Association.

Construction Of State's Fair Exhibit Advancing

Structural steel is now in place for the Maryland Pavilion at the New York World's Fair and State World's Fair Commission is assured the building will be completed in time for the April 22 opening of 1964-1965 international exposition.

Under construction by Baltimore Contractors, the $450,000 building will contain an upper level housing a lounge in one rectangular unit and a restaurant in the other.

On the ground there will be a Chesapeake Bay Wharf; a reflecting pool; a theater for the filming of the story of the Star Spangled Banner, and exhibition areas.

The steel used in the building was fabricated in Baltimore by the Sturdy Steel Company and shipped to Flushing Meadows for erection. Bethlehem Steel Company in Baltimore County furnished the materials used in the fabricating process.

Of the total cost for steel work, about 50 percent is allocated for material; 35 percent for labor and fabrication, and 15 percent for erection. By purchasing the steel from a Baltimore-based company and by fabricating it locally, some 85 percent of the total outlay for the steel work was channeled into the Maryland economy.

Framed by a welded steel superstructure, the upper levels are supported by eight columns. The sides of each of the units are structured by four trusses, each supported by two columns.

Tatar and Kelly, Van Fossen Schwab, architects for the Pavilion, explained that "welded steel was selected for the superstructure because of its rigidity and for its high reclamation value. Its strength also allows for the use of smaller, more delicate members, in keeping with the conception of the contemporary spirit in design."

W. Boulton Kelly Jr., a member of the Pavilion's architectural firm, reported that the roof decking of three-inch wood planking also has been completed. Footings are now being poured for the exhibition walls located at ground level to house Maryland displays featuring its history; port; Chesapeake Bay; tourism; industry, and future.

Situated in a strategic location to attract a large amount of Fair traffic (some 10 million visitors are expected to patronize the Maryland Pavilion over the two-year period), the building easily can be seen from the Long Island Railroad and the subway leading to the main entrance.

On the wall of the lounge facing the railroad and subway huge white letters against a red background will identify the building as the Maryland Pavilion.

Local Art Gallery Showing Well Received By Visitors

An art gallery which opened two weeks ago in Cumberland, already has attracted over 500 visitors, according to Walter Neff, owner.

The gallery is located on the second floor of Neff's Gift Shop on North Centre Street and presently there are approximately 60 pieces of various art forms on display.

This is the first permanent art gallery the city has ever had and the first pieces on display have been done by local and area artists.

Mr. Neff said he hopes to have at least 100 pieces on display within the next six weeks and the present showing will continue until after Christmas. In the future he plans to display collections from other art galleries and to hold one-man shows.

Artists who have some of their work on display are Aza Stanton, Oakland; Mrs. L. E. Erickson, city; Wilbur Hull, LaVale; Adrian Clem, Cresaptown; Edwin Gillis, Mt. Savage; Miss Martha Coulehan, LaVale; Mrs. Linda Finn, LaVale; Gerald Martin, Keyser; Dr. Thomas Slettenhough, Frostburg; Mrs. Garland Johnston, city; John L. Wellington, city; L. M. Pierce, city; Miss P. A. Eichhorn, Frostburg, and Theodore P. Foote, LaVale.

The display includes oil paintings, water colors, serigraphs, prints, engravings, lithographs and pastels.

Broadway Hit Said 'Perfect'

By JACK GAVER
NEW YORK (UPI)—A "laugh show," an unabashed comedy, doesn't stand a chance in the drama prize sweepstakes. Too frivolous, etc.

I don't exactly wish to quarrel with that, but I will say this for Neil Simon's absolutely magnificent "Barefoot in the Park" at the Biltmore Theater—there will not be a play all season that will be as perfect, within its particular category, as this rib-busting delight.

This assertion is based simply on the writing as writing. For the moment, the acting and direction to one side (but what a brilliant side to be on!)

Frankly, I wasn't quite prepared for this perfection. Simon has been a most able writer of comedy for radio and television for years; one of quite an army of such fellows. Two seasons ago Broadway got his first play "Come Blow Your Horn."

Flawed Work

This was funny, it was an au-year, although it never did sell out any week, and it became a successful movie for Frank Sinatra. But, as comedy writing, it was a flawed piece of work; there were numerous dead spots and its stage success owed much to the casting of wonderful Lou Jacobi in the role of an irascible father.

There are no dead spots in not just funny now and then. It is funny for three solid acts, every minute, every second. Almost every line of dialogue, every bit of business by the actors provides a laugh.

The seasoned playgoer will recognize the use of certain standard gimmicks of the comedy business, even a touch of slapstick now and then, but the major asset is the high level of genuinely humorous and inventive dialogue.

Simon also has managed to achieve a difficult thing. While not sparing the horses to get laughs he has been able to keep his people loveable, human and real. You care about them. That seldom is the case in a play that makes an all-out effort to be funny.

Commonplace Ingredients

The ingredients are really commonplace. A struggling and rather sedate young lawyer and his bride of six days, who has certain giddy qualities, try to adjust to married life, meet with some complications, quarrel and decide they made a mistake. Simon makes this seem like the freshest thing in the world.

With it, must be pointed out, the aid of beautiful work by Elizabeth Ashley, Robert Redford, Mildred Natwick and Kurt Kasznar in the leading roles, and the positively impeccable direction by Mike Nichols. No use wasting more words on these people, or on Herbert Edelman, who is in two brief but hilarious scenes. They are wonderful.

This will be a long-long-run hit for producer Saint Subber. With all due respect to the original cast, he doesn't have to worry about replacing any or all of them in years to come. None will ever seem as perfect to me, but Simon has made the script so foolproof that any set of competent players can make it work.

The trails and slopes will be classed for beginners, novices, intermediate and experts. The longest run will be 4,000 feet, while the shortest will be 1,500 feet. ## Higher Prices Keep Tourists From Italy

ROME (UPI)—Italy's fabulous tourist boom is still going strong in 1963—but not as strong as had been expected.

In the first seven months of this year, government officials reported 11,709,000 foreign tourists visited Italy. This was an increase of 10.1 per cent over the same period in 1962.

But in all of 1962 tourism jumped 12.6 per cent over the preceding year, and Tourism Minister Alberto Folchi admitted that he had been expecting the growth rate at least to keep up this pace or even increase.

What went wrong? There are a number of factors, but almost everybody agrees that the major factor keeping many tourists away has been the general price rise in Italy.

Folchi noted that tourism also has shown a slight slump in France and Switzerland for the same reason. Economy-minded tourists are going to such places as Yugoslavia, Greece and Spain where prices are still considerably below those in Italy and its other neighboring countries.

The most worrisome fact in use situation for the Italians is that the number of German tourists this year has actually decreased. The Germans have always been the leading national group by far to visit Italy. In addition to prices, the Germans apparently have been discouraged by an anti-German campaign in the Italian press and films.

New Ski Resort Opens Next Month

Ski enthusiasts in this section will be happy to learn that Blue Knob, a new resort facility near Bedford, Pa., will open its ski slopes on December 7.

Blue Knob, which is located about 21 miles from Bedford, will feature slopes and lifts, snow makers, a "snow coat" for packing the man-made snow when necessary, night skiing, two restaurants, accommodations for 350 skiers at the lodge's barracks and chalets, a ski rental shop, parking lots for 750 cars, nightly entertainment and a nursery for children of skiers while they are out on the slopes.

The winter recreation area will have three lifts totaling 7,300 feet in length on the 3,150-foot mountain. These include a 4,800-foot double chair lift, a 1,300-foot poma lift and a 1,200-foot rope tow. A T-bar lift is planned for next season.

Operators of the resort area say accommodations at the site will be equal of anything offered at any other American and European ski centers. Lodging will be available in buildings which were once used as Air Force barracks when the site was used as a radar station.

These barracks have been remodeled, improved and converted into first class hotel-type accommodations. Rates start at $10 per person per day in the lodge, with meals included on the "modified American" plan. Lodge rates run to $14 per person per day on the same plan.

Modern homes formerly used as officers' quarters at the old Blue Knob AFB have been converted to "chalets" for skiers. Rates for these start at $8 per person per day and do not include meals. Also available is a fully equipped, modern two-bedroom home which can be rented for $1,000 for the entire season.

A "package plan" also will be offered to ski enthusiasts. This plan will include five days of room accommodations, meals, use of all lifts and seven two-hour skiing lessons. Cost of the plan will start at $65 per person.

For those persons who just want to ski, Blue Knob will offer everything from skies and poles to special lessons. Season passes for the lifts for adults are $75 for single adults, $75 for couples and $15 for each child.

For occasional skiers, lift charges will be $4 on weekdays and $5 on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays for the full day. Children under 12 will be admitted for half price. Half-day prices are $2.50 and $3 respectively beginning at 2 p. m. Spectators will be admitted to the facility on weekends only at $1 per person.

Skiing lessons will cost $6 for a full day and this includes the use of the lifts. Ski rentals for the un-equipped skier begin at $4.50.

To get to Blue Knob continue on U. S. Route 220 after leaving Bedford. At Osterburg, which is about 10 miles north of Bedford, turn left and continue to Blue Knob State Park. Then continue through the park to its end and turn right and travel up the mountain.
